GeoJournal An International Journal on Human Geography and Environmental Sciences

Contents volume 42 nos. 1–4 1997

Volume 42 no. 1 May 1997

Land, Sea and Human Effort

Land, sea and human effort: technical achievement and territorial engagement
Terwindt, J.H.J. and Groenendijk, J.G. 1–7

Geography in a restructuring world?
Johnston, R.J. 9–16

The exploitation of off-shore mineral resources
Odell, P.R. 17–26

The pending 'water crisis'
Oudshoorn, H.M. 27–38

The impact of tourism on coastal areas
Gormsen, E. 39–54

Global climatic change – the latest scientific understanding
Callander, B.A. 55–63

Possibilities of remote sensing technologies in coastal studies
Hesselmans, G.H.F.M., Wensink, G.J. and Calkoen, C.J. 65–72

Book reviews 73–77

IGU Reports 79–83

Volume 42 nos. 2–3 July 1997

Tibet and High-Asia

Editorial 85–86

New Findings concerning the Ice Age (Last Glacial Maximum) Glacier Cover of the East-Pamir, of the Nanga Parbat up to the Central Himalaya and of Tibet, as well as the Age of the Tibetan Inland Ice
Kuhle, M. 87–257

Historical to Post Glacial glaciation and their differentation from the Late Glacial period on examples of the Tian Shan and the N.W. Karakorum
Meiners, S. 259–302

The valley of Shimshal – a geographical portrait of a remote high mountain settlement and its pastures with reference to environmental habitat conditions in the North-West Karakorum (Pakistan)
Iturrizaga, L. 303–328

Invesigation into albedo-controlled energy loss during the last glaciation
Bielefeld, B. 329–336

Volume 42 no. 4 August 1997

Moscow and St. Petersburg in Transition

Foreword 337–338

The economic restructuring of Moscow in the international context
Gritsai, O. 341–347

Transformation processes in Moscow and intra-urban stratification of population
Vendina, O.I. 349–363

Business services and restructuring of urban space in Moscow
Gritsai, O. 365–376

Reconstruction in Moscow's historic centre: conservation, planning and finance strategies - the example of the Ostozhenka district
Gdaniec, C. 377–384

Political polarization at the national and the intra-urban levels: the role of Moscow in Russian politics and socio-political cleavages within the city
Kolossov, V.A. 385–401

The new retail trade and services and their emerging location patterns in St. Petersburg
Axenov, K.E., Bondarchuk, E., Brade, I., Papadopoulos, A.G. 403–417

Restructuring the kiosk trade in St. Petersburg: a new retail trade model for the post-Soviet period
Axenov, K.E., Brade, I. 419–432

Long-term tendencies in the electoral behavior and the geography of voting in St. Petersburg: 1989–1995
Axenov, K.E., Papadopoulos, A.G. 433–448

Telecommunication computer networks in Moscow
Federov, D. 449–456

Urban and regional restructuring in Eastern Europe: the role of foreign investment
Turnock, D. 457–464

Book reviews 465–468